modificado el arte y la esencia del fenómeno cultural-formal que constituye el estilo. Han originado modos de pensamiento enteramente nuevos (surrealismo), materiales antes desconocidos (plásticos); han variado las técnicas de realización (arquitectura), la finalidad (pintura) y han creado incluso nuevos procedimientos artísticos (fotografía, collage, cine), que han venido a destruir prejuicios, a desplazar los temas y los sentimientos del espacio y del tiempo, y han facilitado, a cosas que antes eran deleznables (imágenes de modas, costumbres, hechos, personas), la seguridad de la trascendencia temporal, no en versión mediata, debida a la pluma de un «artista», sino por impresión directa de la cosa en la inmovilidad.

Y todo ello se ha producido de un modo inmensamente multiforme, contradictorio, rico y abierto. «Es corriente oponer, en teorías primarias, la caótica naturaleza al maquinismo organizado; la ciencia pura al misticismo religioso; la planificación social a la libre empresa. Pero ello es una abstracción gratuita. El objetivo actual del arte es realizar una expresión sociobiológica. Esto no puede llevarse a efecto sin experimentos de laboratorio» (Moholy-Nagy).

Algunos escritores creados en la escuela del realismo, pero notablemente transfigurados por el temperamento y la libertad, han llegado a situar en el mismo plano estético sistemas de realidades enteramente heterogéneas; un viaje les parece igual a una larga y lenta evolución vital (Thomas Mann), las obras de Julio Verne, tan importantes como el Tristán wagneriano (Coc-teau), y la belleza de la calle, de los mercados abarrotados de alimentos, de las casas de vecindad, con la ropa tendida y goteando, tan impresionante como la más pura catedral gótica (Tristán Tzara, Pablo Neruda), etc. Y esto no es ficción ni desmoralización, porque, en verdad, ellos no han rebajado el arte al nivel de lo pobre y cotidiano, sino que han elevado la vida, en sus últimos suburbios, en sus extramuros tétricos, a la pureza del sol espiritual.

Hablan de decadencia los que, por estar en las filas de la reacción, perciben la real pobreza de su frente; los epígonos desafortunados de un pretérito sin otra redención que la que presta el museo, institución que, por otra parte, se halla en trance de transformación. Es notable, en este sentido, la labor del Museo de Arte Moderno, de Nueva York, y los estudios realizados en otros países para evitar los errores de perspectiva que se producen en exhibiciones de arte desligadas de todo contacto con el subsuelo vital y social.

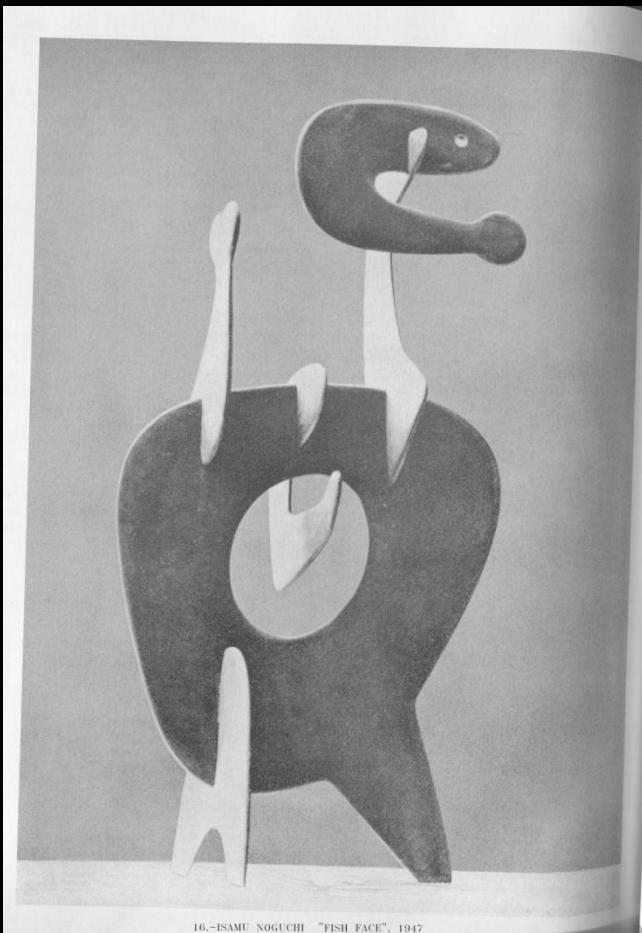

La historia del arte no puede despreciar ningún dato, por pobre que éste pueda parecer. Es significativo que, en 1917, Piet Mondrian fundara la revista De Stijl, en Holanda, preconizando el ángulo recto como único principio de la pintura abstracta, y que, en el mismo año, se iniciara misteriosamente la evolución de la moda, abandonando las formas acampanadas y hinchadas por el tubularismo a lo Léger.

A tal extremo llega la intensidad vital de nuestra época, que sólo en ella puede haberse pronunciado una frase tan orgullosa y desesperada como la de Sartre: «Yo escribo para mi tiempo; no me importa la posteridad». Máxima es la importancia de este signo, en especial por proceder de un campo que puede considerarse enteramente reaccionario; el existentialismo, en efecto, es

HACIA EL FUTURO

Y todo ese mundo creado, en el que el hombre trabaja y crea, está vivo. Tiene las puertas abiertas para que los nuevos inventores de formas puedan dar fuerzas sensibles a lo oculto. La «mística de lo nuevo» tiene una razón de ser. Es el gusto del más allá lo que se percibe en aquello que llega de la nada, todavía sin contaminar, virgen como el amanecer del mundo. La sensación del sabio cuando descubre una substancia nueva, la del amante cuando siente que no termina en sus límites, son el patrimonio del artista-inventor, PLATE 12 Lacquered cabinet belonging to Mallarmé. Inv. 985-50.1. Musée départemental Stéphane Mallarmé, Vulaines-sur Seine. Photo credit: Yvan Bourhis, DAPMD—Conseil général de Seine et Marne, 2008.

Manufactured in Havana, this Japanese-inspired cabinet was originally located in Mallarmé's apartment in Paris, where he held his legendary Mardis. The poet stored some of his papers in this cabinet; the geometric configuration of drawers likely inspired his meditations on shuffling folio leaves in a piece of "lacquered furniture" in Le Livre.

PLATE 11 Decorative paper sheath for the manuscript notes known as Le Livre. By permission of the Houghton Library, Harvard University, MS Fr 270. This sheath contained manuscript notes discovered by Mallarmé's family at the time of his death. Many notes refer to Mallarmé's ideas for performed readings of the Book, such as the number of seats and their arrangement, the price of tickets, and lighting; other sheets contain speculative patterns or mathematical formulas.
